St. Petersburg, June 10.-General Kuropatkin telegraphs to the czar under date of June 8:

"A Japanese brigade attacked a Rus sian detachment, occupying Saimatsza, on June 7. The Russians retired slowly, because of the enemy's great supe riority, toward Fenchulin pass.

"Our losses were 2 officers wounded and 100 soldiers killed or wounded."

FROM RUSSIAN HEADQUARTERS. Account of the Battle With Japs Near Saimatsza.

Russian Headquarters, Liaoyang June 10 .- Two Russian battalions of infantry, a squadron of Cossacks and one battery of artillery, were engaged near Saimatsza on June 7 against two Japanese regiments of infantry with artillery but with no cavalry. Russian losses were 100.

The Russian force at Saimatsza was commanded by General Erhoff, who engaged the Japanese advance at 9 a. m on June 7. The Russian infantry advanced steadily, pushing the Japanese from their position, but their attack presence of an overwhelming force retired in good order. Their losses were 3 officers and about 100 men killed or wounded. Russian observers think the Japanese lost more. The fighting continued until 3 p. m.

The Japanese are reported as at tempting a debarkation north of Senyuchen from ten transports, protected by two warships. Artillerymen, who took part in the fighting with Samsonoff on June 3 say that the Japanese artillery fire was decidedly poor, many shells did not burst and the shrapnel was badly Russian soldiers therefore think that the Japanese artillery is evidently not so terrible as it has been reputed. HURLED TO DEATH

Edward Lilje, of Duluth, Was Killed at an Early Hour This Morning.

FELL FROM FAST MOVING TRAIN

to Pieces—Remains Brought to Brainerd.

Edward Lilje, a Swede of Duluth, fell beneath the wheels of freight No. 53 headed for this city at an early hour this morning, and was instantly killed.

The accident was one of the most distressing in railroad for some time and the facts surrounding the killing of the man are ghastly on the extreme. He was riding on the freight and was en route to Staples where he and his partner, Olaf Johnson, had secured work.

The first known of the accident was this morning shortly after day light when Olaf Johnson walked into the telegraph office at the N. P. depot and left a grip there stating that his partner had fell off a car on No. 53 east of Brainerd and he was going back to look him

Coroner Osterlund was notified and he went to the scene of the accident on a light engine, and the sight that greeted his eyes was one of the most ghastly that he has had to deal with since he assumed the duties of his office.

The man's body was found lying on the right side of the track close to the rail. One leg was completely torn off and was dangling in shreds beside the track. His left arm was torn out near the shoulder and the left side of his body was a mass of flesh and blood. The head had been ground into a pulp and] more than two dozen pieces of the man's skull was picked up along the track.

The scene of the accident was just this side of what is known as the sink hole three miles east of Deerwood. The body was discovered by the section foreman at an early hour this morning and he reported the matter to the station agent at Deerwood who notified the officials at Duluth. A man was sent to to the scene by the section foreman until the coroner arrived.

The man Olaf Johnson, who was the Deerwood as he said he was going to do but staid in Brainerd and awaited the return of the coroner. His story of the dwtf the authorities are inclined to the belief that he was telling the truth.

He stated this afternoon that he and He stated this afternoon that he and Lilje bought a ticket for Staples and SESSIONS ARE that they had rode in the caboose most BENEATH WHEELS of the way. The night was rather warm and at one of the small stations up the line they decided that they would get and ride the rest of the way. They did so and rode for many miles talking quietly. Johnson says that Lilje finally laid down and went to sleep and slept for about half an hour.

Lilje finally woke up and started to move around, but Johnson says he did And His Head and Body Ground not think anything of this. Lilje said The Conference Includes Over neapolis was again re-elected treasurer. that he was going to climb upon a large freight car that was just in front of the

HURLED TO DEATH BENEATH WHEELS

Edward Lilje, of Duluth, Was Killed at an Early Hour This Morning.

FELL FROM FAST MOVING TRAIN

And His Head and Body Ground to Pieces-Remains Brought to Brainerd.

Edward Lilje, a Swede of Duluth, fell beneath the wheels of freight No. 53 headed for this city at an early hour this morning, and was instantly killed.

The accident was one of the most distressing in railroad for some time and the facts surrounding the killing of the man are ghastly on the extreme. He was riding on the freight and was en route to Staples where he and his partner, Olaf Johnson, had secured work.

The first known of the accident was this morning shortly after day light when Olaf Johnson walked into the telegraph office at the N. P. depot and left a grip there stating that his partner had fell off a car on No. 53 east of Brainerd and he was going back to look him

Coroner Osterlund was notified and he went to the scene of the accident on a light engine, and the sight that greeted his eyes was one of the most ghastly that he has had to deal with since he assumed the duties of his office.

The man's body was found lying on the right side of the track close to the rail. One leg was completely torn off and was dangling in shreds beside the track. His left arm was torn out near the shoulder and the left side of his body was a mass of flesh and blood. The head had been ground into a pulp and more than two dozen pieces of the man's skull was picked up along the track.

The scene of the accident was just this side of what is known as the sink hole three miles east of Deerwood. The body was discovered by the section foreman at an early hour this morning and he reported the matter to the station agent at Deerwood who notified the officials at Duluth. A man was sent to to the scene by the section foreman until the coroner arrived.

The man Olaf Johnson, who was the dead man's partner, did not return to Deerwood as he said he was going to do but staid in Brainerd and awaited the return of the coroner. His story of the accident seems to be a straight one and the authorities are inclined to the belief that he was telling the truth.

He stated this afternoon that he and Lilje bought a ticket for Staples and that they had rode in the caboose most of the way. The night was rather warm and at one of the small stations up the line they decided that they would get out on a flat car that had a few logs on and ride the rest of the way. They did so and rode for many miles talking quietly. Johnson says that Lilje finally laid down and went to sleep and slept for about half an hour.

Lilje finally woke up and started to mo ve around, but Johnson says he did not think anything of this. Lilje said The Conference Includes Over neapolis was again re-elected treasurer. that he was going to climb upon a large freight car that was just in front of the

In an instant more Lilje had been hurled to his death and Johnson, his partner, was left alone on the flat car to think over the horrible accident until he got to Brainerd. He heard his partner give one yell after hitting the track and that was all. The track near where the body was found was strewn with bits of flesh and blood and it presented a sickening sight.

Lilje was a man about thirty-five years of age. He was a laborer by occupation and was very industrious. He was not married but he has relatives at Duluth who have been wired.

The remains were picked up and Coroner Osterlund ordered them brought to Brainerd by team. They will arrive late this afternoon and in all probability an inquest will be held. Olaf Johnson is being detained by the officers until an investigation can be held.

The man had some money on his person and his pockets had been rifled before the coroner examined him.

There will be a regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Assembly tonight and all the delegates are requested to be in attendance.
